This COULD be an American first - perhaps a Universal first - An unsolicited, voluntary nickel to somebody's attorney.

Fact is, with everybody ON the planet complaining about "the state of things with the legal profession", fearing more the ravages of a lawyer's bite than the jaws of crime or injustice itself, MY lawyer has turned out to be a fair and honest, hard-working stiff who somehow escaped (at least from my vantage point) the familiar professional addiction to greed, much like our stalwart hero who found him for me.

And I guess, like most people who spend their time griping about the bad stuff and taking the good stuff for granted, I never told you that your straight-shooting M.O. here has not gone un-noticed.

So, here's a token thanks (apart and separate from any statements) with the added promise that when & if my late-life ship should come in, you is gonna be right in the captain's tower with me (probably sending off a threatening letter to some other ship that pissed me off).
